Presenter

Michelle Guenther

President of Playful Wisdom, LLC

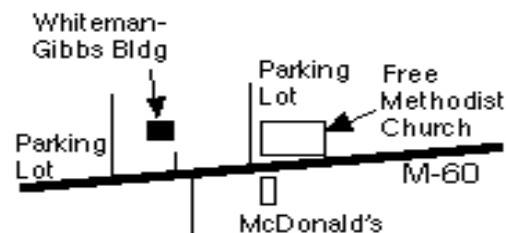

Since 1989, Michelle has worked as an educator and trainer in manufacturing, educational, service, non-profit, and volunteer organizations. She is a certified Smart Wired teacher trained in Educational Kinesiology and a degreed engineer. Coupling over 20 years of research in neuropsychology with her systems engineering background, Michelle has developed the Discovering Me™ Learning Language™ Portrait, a multi-faceted approach that unlocks the personal genius within each frustrated learner.

In 2002, Michelle launched Playful Wisdom, an educational consulting company empowering children to take the lead in their education by becoming translators of their own unique Learning Language™.

For over 14 years, Michelle home educated her three children. In addition, she taught science, math, and French for several home schooling co-ops. Michelle is also a highly rated presenter at home schooling and professional educational conferences.

Part I: Personal Thinking Patterns

A one-day workshop
for parents and students

Saturday, March 13, 2010
9am to 4pm

Spring Arbor University
Whitman-Gibbs Science Center

Made possible with a grant from the Jackson Community Foundation and contributions from Spring Arbor University

Did you know that it is natural for some children to:

- ◆ Need to get up and move after 15 minutes of studying or listening?
- ◆ Not enjoy reading and struggle to retain what they have read?
- ◆ Need to interrupt and ask questions to continue listening?
- ◆ Have a difficult time remembering what is said?
- ◆ Become overwhelmed with visuals such as graphs, algebra formulas, and charts?

Knowing children's thinking patterns can help to:

- ◆ Enhance communication (fewer arguments and misunderstandings).
- ◆ Befriend their "distracting" behaviors to work in their favor (reduce homework time).
- ◆ Connect with their natural motivation (reduce procrastination).
- ◆ Reduce their stress (less complaining).

Who should attend:

Homeschoolers

Parents

Students 12 years and older

Teachers

Tutors

Workshop includes:

- ◆ Introduction to the Learning Brain™
- ◆ 12 Brain/Mind Learning Principles
- ◆ Three Conditions of Learning
- ◆ Six Personal Thinking Patterns (yours and your child's)
- ◆ Communication techniques unique to each Personal Thinking Pattern
- ◆ Teaching techniques unique to each Personal Thinking Pattern
